
THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

THE ELLIOTT SCHOOL
OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

Bachelor of Arts: International Affairs (Pre-Fall 2010 Curriculum)

Students following this curriculum were:

- Admitted to GW as freshmen prior to Fall 2010
 - Admitted to GW as transfer students prior to Fall 2011

Note: All GW courses were renumbered in the Fall 2010 semester. Students are urged to consult the Registrar's website (<http://my.gwu.edu/mod/pws/courserenumbering.cfm>) before enrolling in new courses to avoid duplicating credit. Credit that is duplicated may not be applied to the baccalaureate.

(I) General Curriculum Requirements

These courses provide a general education in the classic tradition and enhance intellectual capacity and critical thinking skills.

Writing (10 Credits)

This requirement enables students to develop their ability to write effectively and to read analytically for the academic world and beyond.

Required:

UW 1020: University Writing (4 credits) (formerly UW 020)
Must be taken during the first year.

Writing in the Disciplines (6 credits)

Two WID courses (6 credits) taken in separate semesters AFTER completion of UW 020. WID courses are offered in all disciplines and may satisfy general curriculum or major requirements if approved for those requirements (e.g., HIST 182W may satisfy the History of International Relations US requirement). WID courses may also be electives.

Social Sciences (16 Credits)

These requirements impart the fundamental concepts, theories, and reasoning processes of the major disciplines at the center of international affairs. Students will be able to identify the different approaches that peoples and governments take towards international affairs problems and explain the nature of those different approaches.

Required:

IAFF 1005: Introduction to International Affairs (formerly IAFF 005)
ECON 1011: Principles of Economics – Micro (formerly ECON 011)
ECON 1012: Principles of Economics – Macro (formerly ECON 012)
PSC 1001: Introduction to Comparative Politics (formerly PSC 001)

Select One:

ANTH 1002: Sociocultural Anthropology (formerly ANTH 002)
ANTH 1004: Language in Culture and Society (formerly ANTH 004)
GEOG 1001: Introduction to Human Geography (formerly GEOG 001)
GEOG 1003: Society and Environment (formerly GEOG 003)
PSC 1002: Intro to American Politics and Government (formerly PSC 001)

Math/Science (6 Credits)

Courses in quantitative reasoning enhance logical and critical abilities using numerical data. Courses in the sciences promote exploration of the fundamental principles of the natural world and demonstrate how the tools of science – careful observation and experimentation – not only help develop technology, but also lead to a deeper understanding of the universe.

- The courses listed below represent the minimum acceptable level; higher-level courses might fulfill this requirement as well. Academic Advisor approval required.
- MATH courses numbered 1220 and higher require a placement test.
- Credit for only one of the following courses may be applied toward a degree: STAT 1051, 1053, or 1111.
- STAT courses may not be double-counted between the Math/Science (GCR) requirement and the Research Methods requirement.

Select Two:

ANTH 1001: Biological Anthropology (formerly ANTH 001)
ANTH 1005: Biological Bases of Human Behavior (formerly ANTH 005)
ASTR 1001: Introduction to Astronomy I (formerly ASTR 001)

BISC 1006: Ecology and Evolution of Organisms (formerly BISC 006)
BISC 1111: Introductory Biology: Cells & Molecules (formerly BISC 011)
BISC 1112: Introductory Biology: The Biology of Organisms (formerly BISC 012)
CHEM 1003: Contemporary Science for Non-Science Majors (formerly CHEM 003)
CHEM 1004: Contemporary Science for Non-Science Majors (formerly CHEM 004)
CHEM 1111: General Chemistry I (formerly CHEM 011)
CHEM 1112: General Chemistry II (formerly CHEM 012)
GEOG 1002: Introduction to Physical Geography (formerly GEOG 002)
GEOL 1001: Physical Geology (formerly GEOL 001)
Credit will not be given for both GEOL 1001 and 1005
GEOL 1002: Environments of the Past (formerly GEOL 002)
GEOL 1005: Environmental Geology (formerly GEOL 005)
Credit will not be given for both GEOL 1001 and 1005
GEOL 1006: Science and the Environment (formerly GEOL 006)
MATH 1007: Mathematics and Politics (formerly MATH 007)
MATH 1008: History of Mathematics (formerly MATH 008)
MATH 1009: Mathematical Ideas I (formerly MATH 009)
MATH 1010: Mathematical Ideas II (formerly MATH 010)
MATH 1051: Finite Mathematics for the Social and Management Sciences (formerly MATH 051)
MATH 1220: Calculus with Precalculus I (formerly MATH 020)
MATH 1221: Calculus with Precalculus II (formerly MATH 021)
MATH 1231: Single-Variable Calculus I (formerly MATH 031)
MATH 1232: Single-Variable Calculus II (formerly MATH 032)
MATH 1252: Calculus for the Social and Management Sciences (formerly MATH 052)
PHIL 2045: Introduction to Logic (formerly PHIL 045)
PHIL 3121: Symbolic Logic (formerly PHIL 121)

PHYS 1005: How Things Work (formerly PHYS 005)
PHYS 1007: Music and Physics (formerly PHYS 007)
PHYS 1008: Origin and Evolution of Ideas in Physics (formerly PHYS 008)
STAT 1051: Introduction to Business and Economic Statistics (formerly STAT 051)
STAT 1053: Introduction to Statistics in Social Science (formerly STAT 053)
STAT 1111: Business and Economic Statistics, I (formerly STAT 111)
STAT 2112: Business and Economic Statistics, II (formerly STAT 112)

Humanities/Creative Arts (9 Credits)*

The humanities express the ideas, aspirations, and values of individuals and the societies in which they live. Through courses in the humanities, students experience the richness of ideas, traditions, and stories that have shaped the world.

*This requirement can be satisfied by completing nine (9) credits of Humanities courses, or six (6) credits of Humanities courses AND three (3) credits of Creative Arts.

Group Concentration

A concentration represents an academic and professional specialization within the field of international affairs.

- Concentrations consist of five courses relating to the themes listed below.
- Concentrations must consist of courses from at least two different academic departments.
- Concentrations must be declared using the Group Concentration Form no later than the first semester of the junior year.
- One course may be double-counted between the group concentration and a major requirement if the course is approved for both requirements. No other double-counting is permitted within the major.

Functional Concentrations

Comparative Political, Economic, and Social Systems

This concentration gives students the tools to analyze political, economic, and social issues that fall both within and across national borders, with the full scope of modern social science. It allows students to understand how countries differ in political, economic, and social structures.

Objective: Graduates of this concentration should be able to identify international and national issues (political, economic and social), analyze these issues from a cross-national comparative perspective, and place them in a social science framework.

International Politics

This concentration considers the strategies that countries use in dealing with other states and addressing various global issues. It examines how both national and international institutions shape the foreign policies of countries and the political interaction among nation-states.

Objective: Graduates of this concentration should be able to analyze the interest that some country has in an international issue, be able to formulate a policy from the point of view of that state, and be able to assess the potential effectiveness of that policy. They should also be able to identify and assess the factors that affect international political cooperation and competition.

At least two courses selected must have the PSC prefix.
