Welcome to the Elliott School of International Affairs!

This resource page is meant to acquaint you with some common pedagogical practices and how to get a head start on your studies. Preparation of these materials in advance of your studies is encouraged.

You can use this page in conjunction with the Graduate Student Services' First Class and financial aid, think of this page more as a learning resource, where you will find:

- We hope that you find these resources useful, and please let us know if you think other resources should be added.

4. Then, select the link for Syllabus to enter the database.

Be advised - these are part semester syllabi. Course content may vary and cannot be guaranteed.
How to Access the Blackboard Syllabi Database

5. Select the folder IAFF Graduate Courses.

6. Finally, you’ll enter the database. As shown below, you will find folders that link to past semesters. Click each folder to view the documents.

Please note: while a majority of syllabi are included, not every syllabus may be available here (i.e. newly established classes). Also, this database only contains IAFF syllabi. You can look at the GW-wide database for other departments.
